Selectmen's Meeting

MAY 1, 1984 - by VIRGINIA ARRAL

THE MANSFIELDS VS THE TOWN

A problem that has existed for over four years was brought to the forefront again when Mr. and Mrs. William Mansfield, Sr. and their son, William Mansfield, Jr., of 10 Noyes Avenue met with Selectmen last Tuesday to discuss the legal aspects of the Mansfields' court case against the town. The Mansfields sued the town in Plymouth County Superior Court and won its case.

The Mansfields specifically sought to ask the board "why are you (the selectmen) willing to spend so much in legal fees to defend the appeal in our suit against the Board of Appeals? How much of a blank check is the town giving Town Counsel Donald J. Fleming to defend the appeal?"

The Mansfields versus the Board of Appeals dates back to February 25, 1980 when William E. and Irene Mansfield sought a Special Permit to maintain a marina in the area off Harbor Acres Lane in a Marine Residence Zoning District. The petition was denied on March 31, 1980. William E. Mansfield, Jr. (Jay) appealed that decision and this was subsequently denied on July 31, 1980. Jay Mansfield wanted to conduct a commercial launch service with accompanying parking lot. A cease and desist order issued by the Building Inspector was ignored by the Mansfields. Despite the favorable court decision the Board of Appeals has refused to issue a Special Permit.

Immediately after sitting before the Selectmen last Tuesday, Mr. Mansfield asked each member if he knew the meaning of "legally untenable grounds". Chairman John DeCosta said he did not know its precise meaning; Selectman Frank Suzan said he knew the meaning but felt he was under no obligation to explain to Mansfield such a request; Selectman James F. Huntoon, with his legal background, said he knew its meaning but said, "we don't have to explain it to you when you know the meaning".

The Mansfield's letter requesting a meeting with Selectmen noted, "as taxpayers and voters we are concerned about the money being spent by town counsel for this defense." Huntoon responded saying, "you should also have said in your letter that you are plaintiffs in the case".

Mrs. Mansfield wanted to know why the town continued to fight the appeal when abuttors of Mansfield's property who originally protested the proposed increased traffic accepted the court's decision.

Huntoon said, "We are lay people here, but we have to be diligent about our responsibility. The town is in a tough position as the Board of Appeals should not have to make decisions that should be made by the court." Huntoon added that the case will probably end up back with the Appeals Board.

During the discussion, Mr. Mansfield said he and his wife were intimidated with one subpoena after another, such as checking his tax return and then being taken out of work to make two-hour depositions.

Town Counsel Fleming commented that four years ago you (the Mansfields) were issued cease and desist orders - you ignored them. "In my six or seven years as Town Counsel you are the only ones to ignore such an order. I regret you take the appeals so personally, but as Town Counsel I am required to advise the town; and I have advised the town that the case should be clarified."

In conclusion, the Mansfields, Town Counsel and the Selectmen agreed to have John Latourneau, the Mansfields' attorney, and Fleming get together for a discussion of the case. Huntoon commented that not many Selectmen would discuss matters that are in litigation in open session. Jay Mansfield said "we appreciate it".

WATER STREET STRIP OF LAND

Mattapoisett Land Trust - Water Street strip of land.

The land is only 500 feet long but this strip of ocean front situated to the right of the western roadway to the wharf could play a very important role in Mattapoisett, the Selectmen agreed.

The land is owned by the Mattapoisett Land Trust and was viewed on March 1st by Jeff Benoit, Coastal Geologist for the Coastal Zone Management in Boston, at the suggestion of Selectmen to determine if its condition could be improved.

George Mock and David Hewitt of the Land Trust gave the report to the board and Mock recommended "to let it take its natural course".

The geologist noted that the portion of the seawall adjacent to the town pier is nothing more than a jumbled pile of stone and debris - the reason being the wall's age. In Benoit's opinion the erosion behind the wall is not a problem and he cannot foresee any harm if the rubble is left as it is. He added that if the Land Trust decided to rebuild the wall, several opinions are available; namely, a professional engineer should be consulted to make any changes, such as wooden bulkheads, concrete retaining walls, concrete seawalls, stone revetments and stone mounds. Any of these measures would be costly, he noted. Any temporary measures will prove to be futile and a poor use of money in the long run. The geologist also suggested that the town construct a berm along the edge of the pier access road adjacent to the trust property because the surface runoff from the road spills onto the trust land and increases the rate of erosion.

Selectmen Suzan said the goal of the Land Trust is the same as the goal of the Selectmen - and that is the good of the town. Huntoon suggested the area should be fixed and perhaps put a bench there so people can sit and enjoy the flowers and scenery. All board members agreed a hurricane would be devastating to that section of land.

DOG COMPLAINT

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cebula of 4 Mariners Way, who received a citation with a $25 fine for a loose dog, agreed their dog was running loose but were protesting to Selectmen that owners of other loose dogs should also receive a fine and be treated the same. Mrs. Cebula claimed that although her six-year old child let the dog out of the cellar, the older children made every effort to confine the dog.

Daniel Querido, a neighbor who was also present, was named by Mrs. Cebula as having a dog that was loose. He denied that his dog was loose on the street which is a violation but that it was in another neighbor's yard with permission. He claimed Cebula's dog tipped over his garbage.

The dog officers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caton, defended their action of fining the Cebulas, saying the Cebulas were warned several times about their dog. When Mrs. Caton went to the Cebula house, she said Mrs. Cebula "started with foul language, so I left and sent for police assistance".

Selectmen agreed to waive the fine and send notices to all dog owners in the West Hill Area that the rules will be strictly enforced and that the board will back the dog officers' necessary actions. Huntoon commented that the dog officers do a good job, and "I don't think they should stand by and be verbally abused".

MOORING DISCUSSION

Norman Reid met briefly with Selectmen to clarify a letter he received from Harbormaster Lloyd Haskell that he must remove his mooring in the harbor within 30 days. Reid said he didn't know there was a restriction allowing use by Mattapoisett residents only. When he was in California for seven years, he let his friends use his mooring. Selectmen noted that Haskell believed the mooring had been sold. The board agreed to hold the removal order in abeyance until the matter is clarified with the Harbormaster.

In other business, Selectmen:

New Rescue Equipment

Through the generosity of anonymous donations and the kindnesses of the people of the Town of Mattapoisett, generated by the annual Fund Drive of the Mattapoisett Rescue Team, the Rescue Squad has purchased a set of three Rescue Air Bags. These bags facilitate the extrication of victims. They can be used to raise vehicles or release obstructions which pin victims.

Also recently purchased through donations was the Huerst Rescue Cutter.

Both of these pieces of Rescue Equipment can be used to complement the existing rescue equipment of the Mattapoisett Rescue Team.

American Art Scene in the Twentieth Century, despite precisionism, abstract expressionism and pop art. That can be debated, and that's what we will try to do as we discuss three very interesting people: Alice Neel, who has painted her friends with little regard for flattery but an uncanny way of being able to portray their souls, and who now, over eighty, is just coming into her own; Audrey Flack, who is shown nationwide for her controversial execution of photo-realism; and Catherine Murphy, the youngest of all our painters, who is hailed as a new kind of urban artist. Lois Murray will discuss Alice Neel, Mixie Montague will present Audrey Flack, and Susan Smith will talk about Catherine Murphy.

Letter to The Editor

Education, as most other areas, has its fads. The "new math" was one of these that was supposed to accomplish great things for our children; many school administrators knew that it wouldn't, but were forced to swim with the tide. The tide is now out!

Another fad that was in the forefront for a few years was the "Open Classroom" concept in school building and design; the fallacy of that has now been amply demonstrated. Again, many school administrators doubted the wisdom of the move, and some were able to resist it. Many did not.

And now we come to the involvement of our school systems in computer technology. If this is not to become another educational fad, it must be handled with more wisdom than we sometimes have shown.

Stanley Pogrow, computer researcher for the University of Arizona, warns that we should not worry about teaching all students computer literacy; not only does the definition of computer literacy change every few months, but by any definition its capacity to increase career opportunities will be marginal.

"Slow down on computers!" That was the strong advice from Melvin Perkins, general manager for engineering at AT&T Communications, at a recent convention session. He also said that technology is, and will continue to be, a mixed blessing, that can produce efficiencies, but lead to both physical and mental laziness. Education, he pointed out, is broadening, while training that business can do is narrowing.

Perkins' advice to educators was to emphasize people, not hardware; that we must focus on fundamental reasoning skills that will be necessary in whatever is "out there". The key to success in education, he concluded, is not computers but dedicated, motivated people who believe in what they are doing and have fun doing it.

Our public schools must handle computer technology within this philosophy or blunder through another expensive educational fad.

An officer of National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which administers the program, stated that "The outstanding test performance of each Commended Student in the highly competitive Merit Program is an attainment deserving of recognition. In a nation that places great value on the education of its young people, it is important to honor academically talented students and to acknowledge the part that schools play in the development of their abilities. We sincerely hope that their attainments thus far will encourage these young women to take advantage of their opportunities for higher education and to acquire the skills they will need to become productive adults and contributing citizens in a free society."

All participants in the current Merit Scholarship competition entered by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in the fall of 1982. Although the scores of the 35,000 Commended Students designated throughout the 50 states were very high, they were slightly below the level required for semi-finalist standing. Only the 15,000 semi-finalists who were announced by NMSC on September 14 will have an opportunity to continue in the competition for some 5,300 Merit Scholarships to be awarded this Spring.

In addition to the library card programs, free nature workshops and presentations are being offered during May and June at the New Bedford Libraries for local children. Details are available at the libraries themselves.

Also, special community nights are being made available to selected communities. Free shuttle bus transportation to and from a local center are part of the program.

ART EXHIBIT

Dorothy Lee Patch and Penny Brewer are co-exhibitors in the YWCA Lobby during May.

Mrs. Patch attended Rutgers University and Kean College and is an elementary teacher and art teacher, currently teaching at Friends Academy. She is exhibiting an assortment of figures in period costume developed in an original style, similar to trapunto.

Ms. Brewer, a graduate of Williams College, teaches art at Friends Academy. She will be displaying flags. She describes flags as "...visual messages which interact with natural elements. A flag can hang in an interior space and have a visual impact similar to a stained glass window, or it can complement the exterior of a building, giving a graphic message as it interacts with the changing wind and light."

Also in the lobby during May are works by the Holy Family Creative Expressions Group, which meets at the YWCA.

The lobby is open Monday - Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

is a fascinating portrait of an exceptional woman of the glorious transformation from poor-little-rich girl, ugly duckling, to a confident woman who overcame shyness to become "the first lady of the world".

The show opens on Eleanor's lonely childhood and her boarding school days in England. Upon her return to America she becomes interested in social work in New York City's slums and then meets handsome young Franklin Roosevelt. As different as they are in temperament, outlook, and style, they fall in love and marry.

Once married, Eleanor's story follows a fascinating series of twists and turns, as her domineering mother-in-law, a growing family, and the pressures of FDR's public life make great and unexpected demands on her. The choices she faces and the decisions she makes give this marvelous story an uplifting triumphant ending.

A seminar on this show will be held immediately following the 7:30 p.m. performance. The cast will be joined by Tom Tierney, who wrote the music for the show. Tom is a graduate of the University of Illinois. He wrote the music for Tommy Tune's one-man show, Ichabod, as well as for two episodes for NBC's Emmy Award TV series, Unicorn Tales. Tom is also working on a full-length Broadway musical about Eleanor Roosevelt with the authors of First Lady. He is currently writing a musical

This display which represents the type of armor and weapons used from 1450 to 1750 will include three complete composite harnesses or suits of armor of the styles popular from 1490-1560. Also featured in the exhibition are two three-quarter suits, including exquisite French blued armor for a cuirassier or cavalry man. c. 1610-1670 and a suite of half-armor for a pikeman.

Also shown will be a mail shirt, several archaeological pieces of the 15th Century, several types of breastplates, a variety of helmets, plus weapons such as swords, pole-arms, and a matchlock musket.

The exhibit will be presented in the gallery which formerly housed the St. Barbara's Room Collection of Artillery Models. The latter collection has been turned into a traveling exhibit and is currently on loan to the Reading Public Museum, Reading, PA.

This season two companion exhibitions will present North American Anthropology ideas at the Military Museum. "American Ancients: prehistory in the United States" is an archaeology exhibit and "Signs of the Spirit" presents ethnographic art.

The archaeology exhibition is made possible, in large part, due to the generous gift in 1983 of several hundred artifacts from brothers Charles M. Ernst and David H. Ernst of Menlo Park, CA. and South Well-

The exhibiton of Heritage Plantation's Native American Art Collection has been refurbished in "Signs of the Spirit". Several new artifacts never exhibited publicly will be shown.

"Harbors and Small Ships", in the lower gallery of the Round Barn, is a special exhibit of harbor scenes and other marinescapes by Frank Vining Smith (1879-1967).

"A Pennsylvania-German Sampler" is the premier 1984 exhibition in the north gallery wing of the Arts and Crafts Building. The Pennsylvania-Germans are highly regarded today at the creators of one of the most significant folk art traditions in America. This exhibit presents a survey of the variety of objects and colorful decorative motifs utilized by the German settlers of Penn's Woods. Over 150 items including paintings, fraktur, prints and drawings plus many three-dimensional objects such as pottery, stoveplates, silver, glassware, firearms, furniture, textiles, and baskets are featured in the display. Among the artists and craftsmen represented are Heinrich Otto, John Valentine Haidt, Jacob Eichholtz, John Lewis Krimmel, Charles C. Hofmann, and Henry William Stiegel.

A featured portion of the exhibition involves Fraktur art from the Unger-Bassler Collection of the Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Fraktur was an almost exclusively Pennsylvania-German art form which consisted of highly decorated illuminated ink and watercolor manuscripts painted or printed during the 18th and 19th centuries. The term refers to the broken or
